

ARMY SONGS

MAKE ME THINE!

Why should I be a slave to sin,
To foes without and foes within Sometimes I mount, sometimes cast down,
Sometimes all smile, sometimes all frown.

Be Thou my strength, be Thou my all,
Then surely I shall never fail;
If none can pluck me from Thy hand,
I more than conqueror shall stand.

'Tis true I have no room to boast,
When most I'm saved I'm humbled most;
Kept low by grace, and not by sin,
My soul shall make her boast in Him.

FULL SALVATION

Tunes—Take Salvation, 170; Helm-sley, 107; Song Book, 404.
Full Salvation! Full Salvation!
Lo! the Fountain, opened wide,
Streams through every land and nation.
From the Saviour's wounded side,
Full Salvation!
Streams an endless crimson tide.

Love's restless current sweeping
All the regions deep within;
Thought, and wish, and senses keeping
Now and every instant clean!
Full Salvation!
From the guilt and power of sin.

PASS ME NOT!

Pass me not, O loving Saviour,
Hear my humble cry;
While on others Thou art calling,
Do not pass me by.

Chorus
Saviour, Saviour, hear my humble cry, etc.

Let me at the Throne of Mercy
Find a sweet relief;
Kneeling there in deep contrition,
Help my unbelief.

Trusting only in Thy merit,
Would I seek Thy face;
Heal my wounded, broken spirit,
Save me by Thy grace.

WAITING FOR THEE!

Tunes—Oh, the drunkard may come 186; There's no one like Jesus, 192.
Poor sinner, Thy Saviour is waiting for thee—
Is waiting to see if from sin thou wilt flee;
His love is so boundless, so full, and so free—
Then why not come home while He's waiting for thee?

Chorus
Oh, the drunkard may come, and the swearer may come.

The Lord who has bought thee has waited so long,
Oh, haste thee at once, or thy chance will be gone!
Then ever in darkness shut out thou must be,
For ever from Jesus, who now waits
for thee.

HE KNOWS

I know my Heavenly Father knows,
The storms that would my way oppose;
But He can drive the clouds away,
And turn my darkness into day.

Chorus
He knows, He knows.

I know my Heavenly Father knows,
The balm I need to soothe my woes;
But He my cause will ever defend,
Uphold and keep me to the end;

I know my Heavenly Father knows,
The hour my journey here will close,
And may that hour, O faithful Guide,
Find me safe sheltered by Thy side.

HE PASSETH BY!

Tunes—Ye banks and braes, 121;
Madrid, 117; Song Book, 85.
What means this eager, anxious throne,
Which moves in busy haste along—These wondrous gatherings day by day?

What means this strange commotion, pray?
In accents hushed the throng reply,
'Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.'

Jesus! 'tis He who once below Man's pathway trod, 'mid pain and wee;
And burdened ones, where'er He came,
Brought out their sick, and deaf, and lame;
The blind rejoiced to hear the cry,
'Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.'

THE CIRCLE BROKEN

Brother T. Freemantle Called Up Higher.

The meetings on Sunday, May 23rd, were made rather solemn because of the death of another of our old comrades, Brother T. Freemantle, who passed away Saturday evening in the General Hospital.

Meetings were fairly well attended,
but as a number of our comrades were away for the holiday the congregations were somewhat smaller.

The funeral of our departed comrade took place on Monday, May 24th, the soldiers and friends turned out well, and a good many went to the cemetery. We pray that God will bless those left behind, and that the death of our comrade may be the means of bringing many to God.

PRISONERS OF WAR LETTERS

The British Postmaster-General announced that letters, post-cards, parcels, and money orders may be sent free of all postage charges to prisoners of war interned abroad, and to British civilians interned in Austria-Hungary and Germany.

The address must be in the following form, and must be written very distinctly in ink—Rank, initials, name, regiment (or other unit), British prisoner of war, place of internment, country, care of General Postoffice, Mount Pleasant, London, E.C.
Letters should be short and clearly written, and may not contain any references to the naval, military, or political situation, or to naval and military movements and organizations. Letters containing such references will not be delivered.

A BARGAIN

A violin, in first-class condition, cost fifty dollars when new, including cost of case; owner is willing to let it go at reasonable price; instrument has a sweet, mellow tone, and has been in use four years; copy of Quartermaster in 1908; chin rest, good strong case and bow, go with violin.
All enquiries should be made to:
Captain Luxton, Box 135, Bowmanville, Ontario.

AN ENTERTAINMENT

On Sunday, May 16th, Adjutant Meeks of Ingersoll enrolled a comrade under the Flag. We had a number of visitors on May 23rd and 24th, which added considerable interest to the meetings. Amongst others were Captain C. Milton, of Toronto;
Lieutenant Rowland, of Seaforth;
and Young People's Sergeant-Major Fletcher, of Stratford.
The Young People gave an entertainment on the evening of the 24th, before a very good audience, at which Young People's Sergeant-Major Fletcher took the chair. The Band also drew good crowds to the opera—C. D.

THE

AND
OFFICIAL GAZETTE OF THE SALVATION ARMY IN CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

Headquarters: 101 Queen Victoria St., London, E.C.
Territorial Headquarters: James and Albert Sts., Toronto.

W. Bramwell Booth, General. TORONTO, JUNE 10, 1915. W. J. Richards, Commissioner. Price Five Cents

THE WORLD FOR CHRIST.—At the Territorial Ingathering on Monday, May 31st, the Commissioner was handed a cheque for $22,519, the results of the Self-Denial Effort, being $8,745 increase over last year's Effort. "This cheque," said the Commissioner, "will help The Army to maintain and extend its blessed work in the 58 countries and colonies over which The Army Flag flies, and enable more Officers to proclaim Sal- vation in the 56 languages in which The Army now preaches the Gospel."

The Praying League

Prayer Topics

1. Pray earnestly that much contrition and grace may be given during the war, on field, sea, and hospital.
2. Pray that all who are ministering to the wounded and suffering may be physically and spiritual strength granted in hours of need.
3. Pray that men and women may be made to realize their great need of Salvation.
4. Pray that a spirit of humility and heart-searching may spread among all the nations.
5. Pray that the people—men and women—throughout the Empire, who are victims of the terrible drink habit, may seek Divine strength to free themselves from it.
6. Pray that all our legislators throughout the Empire may have Divine understanding for their difficult executive duties.

Everlasting Love

Jesus speaks of a living flowing from eternity, and made glorious by everlasting Love. Here is Water, wonderful Water! It holds all that is marvellous and good in the old wells, and immeasurably more! It is the Water of Life and the Water for Life, and for all the conditions of this life embrace. It quenches for ever the carnal fires. It slakes the burning appetite for fresh sensations. It allays the fever of anticipation and the dread of the future. It gives refreshment and strength for the daily march on different roads. It floods the soul with plenty when the benefactions of the world are withdrawn. Death does not stop this wonderful flow. No decay can come where this wondrous spring abides. It is everlasting. Wonderful water, and a never-failing supply.

Consider further, it shall be a "well of water within you." It must be so. Only thus can its wonders be manifest. In it is the source of the buoyant spirit, of independence of external, of inner strength, of calmness and repose. In it is the power to endure, to persist to the end, and to sustain the burden of the monotonous task.

Jesus spoke of it Himself, and in doing so made plain how supremely necessary it is to the soul of man. None of His references to Himself are so powerful as those in which He speaks of Himself as Bread and Water—the fundamental necessities of mankind. We cannot do without them, or without Him, the Source of the Sustenance, the Strength of Life.

Loyalty and Sacrifice

Supreme loyalty to God is ready for supreme sacrifice. Our devotion is worth little unless it is prepared to bleed. Loyalty that is sacrificial faith that ventures everything, love that lays its all upon the altar—these take the Kingdom of Heaven by storm. The quality of our piety may be gauged by the quality of our sacrifices. "God so loved the world" (Concluded on Page 15.)

A Bit of Dutch Delf

A NEW HOPE, A NEW HOME, AND A NEW NOSE

By Lieut.-Colonel Cunningham, Holland

HE is a thick-set, sturdily-built Hollander, who gives the impression that he has rolled around a bit, seen the rough-and-tumble of life in more than one foreign port and managed to come out fairly right with not too many scars, but with something stamped upon his countenance and evident in his manner, which says: "Hard days," "hard work," "hard drinking," "hard fights," and hardly the kind of a fellow to get playing practical jokes upon.

I met him first in Groningen and was introduced to him as the Colonel-Sergeant of the No. 11, Corps. I readily concluded that here we had a trophy of God's Grace of the Harlequin type. A bit of real Dutch delf, which had through sin been badly broken and damaged, but was now through the operation of the Holy Ghost and the application of the and make happy and comfortable, this cruel, drunken tyrant of a husband. Truly, women are wonderful, especially the wives of drunks. One day his little boy met him at the door of his favourite krog (saloon), and told him how he had been to a meeting on a boat, and urged his half-drunken father to take him again, as there was going to be a magic lantern exhibition with all sorts of nice pictures, and the price to go in was only ten cents for big men and five cents for little chaps like him. The father was hard to convince that his little son was telling him all the truth, and "apparently" thought "that the boy was more old-fashioned than his six annisters entitled him to be, and his story was a got-up one, to raise five cents on his father. (Five cents go to two cents in Canadian money.)

He said he did not believe the

The Sergeant and His Family

Blood of Christ, gloriously remodelled and re-made.

He had, like many of his countrymen, spent a large part of his life at sea, and had visited many of the lands round about his own native Netherlands, picking up a smattering of English, a useful knowledge of French, and several other languages, and also steadily acquired a liking for the favourite drinks of the lands to which he sailed and a burning craving for Dutch gin.

Having got married, he tried to settle down to life ashore, but the old habit of getting drunk whenever the chance came his way, was completely mastering him, and, often led to fearful scenes at home, when the house which his poor wife tried to keep so sweet and nice (for a Dutch woman likes her home full of furniture to positively shine) became like to one in which a bomb had just burst, chairs tables, and crockery-ware, all scattered in an almost unsupportable confusion, with his wife battered and disgraced nearly beyond recognition.

On the occasion of one of his mad, drunken sprees, he had played havoc with everything he could lay his hands on, and finished up by trying to break the leg of one of the chairs on his poor wife's nose. She lay on the floor, more dead than alive, bleeding and groaning, with the result of her nose smashed as a badge of his cruel experiment. Strange to tell, in spite of all, she loved him still, and soon was once more doing all she could to serve little lad, as he had never heard of a meeting on a boat, and what he did not know about boats, no one in Groningen could teach him. The youngster stuck to his guns and tried to explain that The Salvation Army was having services on a boat, and he had been to one for children that afternoon, and again he pleaded with his father to see the pictures.

The idea of a meeting on a boat rather puzzled him, and seemed also to attract him; so he rolled off his drunk, hand-in-hand with his little lad, to find the kade (pier) where this Salvation-Army-boat lay.

Crossing the gangway, he found that he had spent all his money, except a few cents, at the krog; but the Salvationist to whom he addressed himself was a genial fellow, with a love for the soul of the drunk, and an eye that quickly took in the situation, and who speedily fixed matters up and had our friend safely seated among some two hundred others who had come to the meeting.

The singing was fine, the praying appealed to him, and the Gospel message laid hold of his mind and presently he felt himself gripped by a deep conviction; that he was a wicked, hell-deserving sinner; and on the verge of being eternally lost. Tears began to flow and he felt himself more helpless than his little child, who every now and then looked up into his face and wondered what had happened to his father.

The prayer meeting started, and (Concluded on Page 15.)

FORM A BRASS BAND AND HAVE SALVATION ARMY
MUSIC.

You will doubtless be interested to know (writes Colonel J. Cunningham, the Chief Secretary of The Army in Holland) that I have twice met the British marine men interned in Groningen, and conducted the first religious meeting that was held for them, just after they were brought there at the time when Antwerp fell.

They are a fine lot of fellows, warmly appreciating The Salvation Army's visits, and every week are supplied with the English "War Cry" and "Social Gazette," and, further, we are just supplying them, at their special request, with Salvation Army music, for a brass band, which they have formed.

Commissioner MacAlonan has had a very warm welcome in every part of Holland, and has had some wonderful and blessed meetings, in spite of the war, bad business, and mobilization, etc. The Salvation Army is forging ahead, glorifying God, and seeking the Salvation of the lost.

The Salvation Army in Holland has done a good deal of work for the thousands of Belgian refugees, who poured into that country at the time of the fall of Antwerp, and are still continuing to do so. We have, in fact, supplied nearly two hundred thousand beds and over a million meals. In addition to which, parcels of clothing have been sent to the interned military men in Holland.

PROMOTED TO GLORY

Sister Brokenshire, Lippincott St.

On the 24th of May our sister passed away on the hospital. The direct cause of death was pneumonia, though for some time she had been afflicted with paralysis. She passed away happy in Jesus. To the last her concern was for the Salvation of others. To a visiting Sergeant from the Corps she said: "Never mind coming to see me. Go and visit—(mentioning a backslider). We must pray for him."

Our late comrade was at one time an Officer, and served in the Field for six years. Compelled by home circumstances to give up Officership she still remained an active worker for Christ as opportunity allowed, and her unselfish life was an example to all. Her remains were interred at Fenelon Falls, her home town.

Bandman B. Lavender—Memorial Service Held at Galt.

On Sunday night, May 16th, a memorial service was held for our late comrade, Bandman Bert Lavender, who fell in action in the battle of Langemarck. He was converted, enrolled, and played in the Galt Band for a considerable time. Last spring he went to Belleville, transferred, and played as a Bandman. When the war broke out he volunteered for service for King and country. He has three other brothers serving in the King's army.

Another brother, who is a Bandman in Galt Salvation Army Band, tells the following: Prior to Bert's conversion, he was under deep conviction, and often expressed his desire to live a better life, but like many others, kept putting it off. He could stand out no longer, and one Sunday night, as soon as the invitation was given, he stepped forward.

With The Belgian Red Cross

SOME ACCOUNT OF THE AMBULANCE DE L'OCEAN AT LA PANNE THE ONE-TIME SEASIDE RESORT, WHERE BELGIAN WOUNDED ARE TENDED BY BRITISH NURSES

Fresh Air on the Belgian Sea Front—Patients on the Digue at La Panne

I AM at the Belgian Red Cross hospital, to-night. Have had supper and have been given a room on the top floor, facing out over the sea. This is the base hospital for the Belgian lines. The men come here with the most frightful injuries. As I entered the building to-night the long tiled corridor was filled with the patient and quiet figures that are first fruits of war. They lay on portable cots, waiting their turn in the operating rooms, the white coverings and bandages not whiter than their faces.

11 p.m.—The night superintendent has just been in to see me. She says there is a baby here from Furness with both legs off, and a nun who lost an arm as she was praying in the garden of her convent. The baby will live, but the nun is dying.

She brought me a hot-water bottle, for I am still chilled from my long ride, and sat down for a moment's talk. She is English, as are most of the nurses. She told me with tears in her eyes of a Dutch Red Cross nurse who was struck by a shell in Furness two days ago as she crossed the street to her hospital, which was being evacuated. She was brought here.

"Her leg was shattered," she said. "So young and so pretty she was, too! One of the surgeons was in love with her. It seemed as if he could not let her die."

"How terrible!" For she died. "But she had a cousin," the night superintendent hastened to assure me. "The others, of course, do not. And two of the nurses were relieved to-day to go with her to the grave."

I wonder if the young surgeon went? I wonder—

The baby is near me. I can hear it whimpering.

Midnight—A man in the next room has started to mean Good God, what a place! He has shell in both lungs.

2 a.m.—I cannot sleep. He is trying to sing "Tipperary."

English battleships are bombarding the German batteries at Newport from the sea. The windows rattle all the time.

6 a.m.—A new day now. A grey and forbidding dawn. Sentries every hundred yards along the beach under my window. The gunboats are moving out to sea. A number of French aeroplanes are scouting overhead.

The man in the next room is quiet. Imagine a great seaside hotel stripped of its bands, its gay crowds, its laughter. Paint its many windows white, with a red cross in the centre of each one. Imagine its corridors filled with wounded men, its courtyard crowded with ambulances, its parlours occupied by convalescents who are blind or hopelessly maimed, its writing-room a chapel trimmed with the canopy of death.

For bath chairs and bathers on the sands substitute long lines of weary soldiers drilling in the rain and cold. And over all imagine the unceasing roar of great guns. Then but feebly, you will have visualized the Ambulance de l'Océan at La Panne.

The town is built on the sand dunes, generally a few feet above the sea. There are groves of trees, and there are groves of trees, and there are groves of trees.

NEWS NOTES and COMMENTS

The Wreck of the Lusitania

COALITION CABINET

Early conclusions are being drawn from the recent re-organization of the British Cabinet. It seems to be the general opinion, however, that the new cabinet is a coalition cabinet.

The new cabinet is a coalition cabinet. It is a coalition cabinet. It is a coalition cabinet.

FOREIGN BORN IN STATES

The Canadian Military "Gazette" estimates the number of foreign born in the United States as follows: British, 2,943,000; Canadian, 1,400,000; French, 150,000; Russian, 2,375,000; Italian, 2,025,000.

The numerical strength of the enemy is 4,597,000, made up of 2,625,000 German birth, 122,000 Turks, and 1,850,000 Austrians, or an excess of 4,294,000 for the allies.

This effectively disposes of the idea that there are few millions of Germans in the States, which seems to disturb some people quite a bit.

A CHANGE ADVISABLE

MANY people in England who have names that might lead to doubt as to their nationality are busy getting them changed. Quite a number of deeds poll have been registered since the commencement of the year, but whereas most of the "changeables" have been content to adopt the Anglicized version or a variation of the name, they have borne hitherto, others have made changes of a decided nature. For instance, the name of Lipschitz has become Lipson. Shubachmidt becomes Smith, and von Goldstein, Reid.

NEW COMBATANTS

THE entrance of Italy into the war has brought another section of the population of the North American Continent into close contact with the great conflict. There are over two million Italians in the United States and 45,411 in Canada. Many thousands of these may volunteer to go to the front.

There were many touching incidents when the survivors from the Lusitania's boats. One mother had the glad experience of being rescued with her little daughter and her husband. She passed her child to the willing hands of the Irish boatmen, and the first passenger whom she noticed on the little fishing vessel was her own husband, who had been picked up a few minutes previously. The accompanying picture shows some of the boats attempting to get away from the Lusitania just when she was beginning to heel over at a steep angle before she took her final plunge. For some little time the vessel had remained on a fairly level keel, but just before she sank she assumed a sudden list to starboard, endangering the boats, which were still close to her side, for one of the boats was wrecked through being too close to the ship.

"Sure, I'll not drop her!"

FORGOT WHO HE WAS

AREMARKABLE case of complete loss of memory, and a no-less-remarkable recovery, occurred recently in Toronto. Three months ago a young man disappeared while on his way to consult a physician in Syracuse. His friends searched for him far and wide, but without result. Just recently he turned up in the Toronto Detective Department, and asked the police to locate his relatives. It appears that he quite forgot his name and all about his former life, and while under this mental cloud enlisted in the Royal Canadian Dragoons, giving another name and address. This queer condition was the result of an accident which occurred in Denver, Colorado, last summer.

His memory began to return to him after a baseball accident which happened on the grounds of Stanley Barracks two weeks ago. After the accident he was treated for a fractured jaw, and then he remembered vaguely his home in the United States. In seeking the help of the police he was specially told his right name, on which he burst into tears. He will be discharged from the army and go to his home.

BRITAIN'S NEW SEA LORD

THE appointment of Admiral Sir Henry Jackson as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty removes all doubt as to the retention of Lord Fisher in that post.

Admiral Jackson is not very well known to the general public, but in the service he has long been considered "the cleverest man in the navy." He is the only naval officer who is a fellow of the Royal Naval Society, to which he was nominated in 1901 for his research in electrical physics. His sea service as an admiral has not been extensive, but he is familiar with all the latest scientific developments of hostilities at sea and enjoys the fullest confidence of the navy.

SOME WONDERFUL CAVES

THE Dominion Parks Branch has

ing the famous Nakimu Caves near Glacier, British Columbia. These interesting natural curiosities consist of a series of underground chambers, some of them fifty feet high and more than two hundred feet long, hollowed out partly by erosion and partly by volcanic action, and opening into each other at different levels. The walls of the caves are covered with strange forest limestone formation, and they reverberate to the roar of underground torrents.

The different chambers have been given names suggestive of their character: "The Pit," "The Marble Way," "The Ballroom," "The Art Gallery," "The Judgment Hall," "The White Grotto," "The Bridal Chamber," etc., and when they are lit with electricity and proper guards and handrails have been placed on the stairs and platforms, they should be among the most interesting sights in the Rockies for tourists. A copy of the pamphlet may be had free on application to the Dominion Parks Branch, Ottawa.

ONTARIO'S NEW WAR GIFT

A HOSPITAL of a thousand beds and six motor ambulances is the further contribution of the Ontario Government to the Imperial cause. The Government has decided on the cottage plan for the new hospital, and it is likely ten cottage hospitals, each with one hundred beds will be constructed. They will be located at Cliveden, the Asolo place in the south of England, where so many of the Canadian wounded are being cared for, and will be known as "Ontario" cottages.

As the British authorities are greatly overtaxed to provide medical and surgical treatment for the wounded troops, this gift will be very welcome and will be the means of saving much life and reducing the hardships and sufferings of those who have gone to fight the battles of the Empire.

No one would be willing to have his friend know him as well
